Father Michael J McGivney, founder of Knights of Columbus, is beatified by Faith Catholic

Father Michael J McGivney was beatified at the Cathedral of Saint Joseph in Hartford, Connecticut October 31. The parish priest from the Archdiocese of Hartford, Connecticut founded the lay fraternal order of the Knights of Columbus in 1882 and died of pneumonia while ministering to the people of his community during the pandemic of 1890.

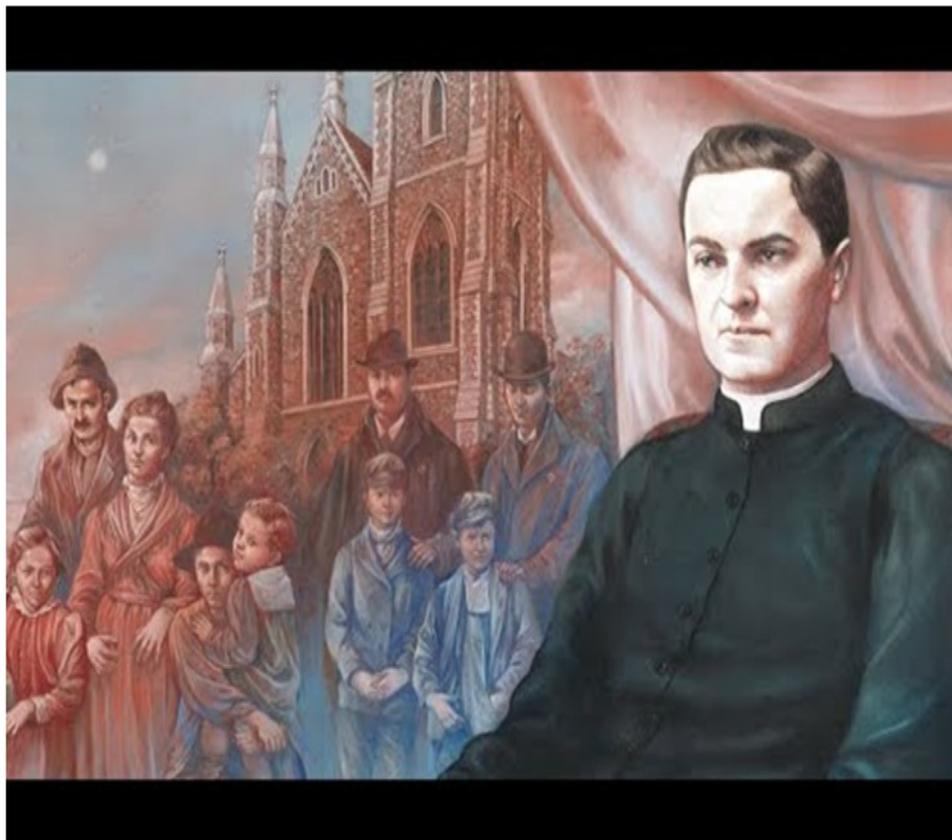

The beautification follows the approval by Pope Francis in May of a miracle attributed to Father McGivney's intercession. The miracle involved the healing of an unborn baby from a life-threatening condition in 2015.

The son of Irish immigrants, Michael McGivney was born in Waterbury, Connecticut in 1852. When his father died while still a young man, the McGivney children had to work to help provide for the family.

He was ordained as a priest in Baltimore in 1877 for what is now the Archdiocese of Hartford. Assigned to St. Mary Church in New Haven, Connecticut, a parish with a pastor in ill health and tremendous debt, Father McGivney rose to the occasion. Described as a natural and engaging leader, Father McGivney's concern for the poor and marginalized touched the hearts of parishioners as well as those of the community at a time when anti-Catholic sentiment was strong. In an effort to alleviate the suffering endured by widows and orphans, Father McGivney founded the Order of the Knights of Columbus in the basement of Saint Mary church in 1882.

Dedicated to the principles of charity, unity and fraternity, the order also served as a community where laymen could become "brothers" in serving others and supporting one another spiritually.

Though Father McGivney founded the order, he insisted that the organization be led by the laity, not by the clergy. The first and largest lay-led Catholic organization in the world now has more than 2 million members. There are more than 16,000 councils throughout the world including the United States, the Philippines, Mexico, Canada, France, Poland, Ukraine and Korea.

Father McGivney was the pastor of Saint Thomas parish in Thomaston, Connecticut during the pandemic of 1890 that killed some 1 million people. He developed pneumonia while caring for the sick and died August 14, 1890, just two days after his 38th birthday.

The Diocese of Hartford opened his cause for sainthood in 1997 in recognition of his charitable devotion to the marginalized and his commitment to his faith. Pope Benedict XVI declared Father McGivney Venerable in 2008 following the investigation into his life by the Congregation for the Cause of Saints that found he had lived "a life of extraordinary and heroic virtue."

In order for Father McGivney to be canonized and acquire the title of saint, another miracle is required and must have occurred after his beatification.

St. Pius X Council 111101 exemplifies the principles set forth by Fr. McGivney of Charity, Unity, and Fraternity. We are a community of “brothers” in serving others and supporting one another spiritually. This is the largest lay-led Catholic organization in the world with 2 million members.
